What Win I if I Gain?

(From "Rape of Lucrece.")

By WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE.

Other selections from this author, his portrait, autograph and biographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.

What win I if I gain the thing I seek?

A dream, a breath, a froth of fleeting joy.

Who buys a minute's mirth to wait a week?

Or sells eternity to get a toy?

For one sweet grape, who will the wine destroy?

Or what fond beggar, but to touch the crown?

Would with the sceptre strait be stricken down?

This series began in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, Oct. 11, 1904. One is published each day.

JOE ECHOLS GETS FOURTEEN YEARS

Pittsylvania Man Who Killed

W. B. Barksdale Will Spend

Long Term in Prison.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) CHATHAM, Va., February 21.—Joe Echols was to-day given fourteen years in the penitentiary for killing Walter B. Barksdale. The tragedy took place at the store of C. R. Atkinson about one mile from Lela, about the middle of January. Barksdale, Echols's father, and Charles McGregor met at the store; Barksdale and McGregor had bought a box of cigars, resulting in Joe Echols and McGregor threatening Barksdale with a pistol and knife. Barksdale reached for a gun behind the counter, and after warding them off went into the yard. Something was said about going for their guns, and all left. Barksdale was the first to return, bringing his double-barrel gun, and was standing near the store when Echols and McGregor rode up. Barksdale asked who was that, and received a load of shot from the range, tearing a hole through his body. Several shots were fired afterwards, and Barksdale stated that he fired two shots, inflicting slight wounds on one of Echols's legs. Echols's father and McGregor were indicted as accessories, and are now out on bail, and their trials have been set for the April term.

Major George T. Rison, counsel for Echols, moved for a new trial, which was taken under consideration by Judge Harvey until to-morrow morning.

CAPITALISTS ON VISIT TO SOUTH

Mr. Lancaster Williams Brings Prominent Men to Norfolk and Richmond.

ALL ARE GREATLY SURPRISED

Material Development of Virginia in Past Decade Astonounds Them.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NORFOLK, Va., February 21.—A party of capitalists and investors, to the number of fifty-five, headed by Mr. R. Lancaster Williams, president of the Norfolk and Portsmouth Traction Company, arrived here at an early hour this morning aboard the steamer Charlotte, of the Chesapeake Line, which was chartered to bring them from Baltimore. Most of those in the party have money invested in the Norfolk and Portsmouth Traction Company.

One of the important objects of their visit was to inspect the Jamestown Exposition development, and to determine as nearly what the demands of the exposition will be in the way of transportation facilities.

After breakfast aboard the Charlotte, the visitors did not tarry long in the city, but boarded special cars and proceeded at once to the exposition grounds. The weather was bad, but that did not deter them. They drove over the grounds in carriages, and soon had themselves pretty well posted as to what has been done there.

Mr. E. C. Hathaway, vice-president and general manager of the Norfolk and Portsmouth Traction Company, met the visitors on their arrival, and assumed practical charge of their movements. They constitute perhaps the most important body of investors that have ever visited this section of Virginia. They will be in Richmond Saturday.

Showing Them Around. Luncheon was had at the Monticello Hotel at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. Williams sent to the Times-Dispatch correspondent:

"The party, numbering about fifty-five, are here as the guests of the Norfolk and Portsmouth Traction Company, and of the Norfolk and Portsmouth Traction Company, the majority of them being from Baltimore, Pittsburg and Kansas; but we have several with us from Europe.

"The object of the trip here is simply to show these gentlemen Norfolk, Portsmouth and vicinity, and the Jamestown Exposition. Some of them have been here before, and it has been a long time since others of them have been here.

"They were much surprised with what they have seen. They had no idea that so much has been accomplished in this section. Some of the exposition grounds, Mr. Williams replied that they were amazed at the magnitude of the undertaking and the work that has been done for it.

Visit Jamestown Island.

After luncheon the visitors were taken to the power-house of the Traction Company in Brambleton, and from there they went to Berkeley and Money Point over the Traction lines. They went to Old Point aboard the Charlotte to-night, and after dinner at the Chamberlain Hotel they boarded the steamer and the night was spent aloft in the Hampton Roads off Old Point.

After breakfast aboard the steamer to-morrow morning, the party will return to Norfolk by the way of Ocean View, arriving at 11:30 o'clock. The visitors will then go to Portsmouth, Jamestown Island will be visited in the afternoon and Saturday.

After breakfast the tourists will visit the battlefield at Yorktown, after which they will be taken by special train to Richmond, where the afternoon will be spent. Luncheon will be served them at West Point at 4:30 o'clock, where the Charlotte will again be boarded on the return trip to Baltimore.

Mr. T. H. McDunn, assistant general passenger agent of the Chesapeake Line, is looking after the transportation of the visitors.
